Speaking Up

Working as a casual labour hire worker brings with it its own challenges. Issues such as irregular work hours and changing shifts are common issues within the industry. Casual labour hire workers may feel that rather than speaking up about issues it's better to remain quiet and remain in work.

Labourforce management and all members including your Account Manager are there for a purpose. If you have any issues or concerns about;

- Any unsafe work practices or excessive work demands being placed upon you.
- If you are being harassed, sexually harassed, bullied or threatened.
- Or if you are struggling with a mental health issue.

Speak Up, call your Labourforce representative, ask to speak to our Safety Manager or alternatively you can report the issues via our website. It can also be reported anonymously.
